THREE SONDER BOATS CHOSEN JOYETTE AND WOLF THE LAT-

EST SELECTIONS.

hese With the Ellen Will Race Against the Germans in International Contest -Committee Had Hard Work to Pick the Third Boat, Wolf, Yesterday.

MARBLEHEAD, Mass., Aug. 20.-The comttee having charge of the races of sonder class yachts to select three to against the German three at the end the month has selected the Ellen, owned C. P. Curtis; the Joyette, owned by Com-William H. Childs, and the Wolf, their opinion showed the most consistent ork during the week. The Ellen was chosen yesterday morning

e Joyette was selected after the first race e-day and the Wolf was chosen at a meethis evening. This meeting was a long one and it was late when the announcement as made. The members had to weigh the ormances of the Wolf and Crooner, and

It is probable that the performance of oardman to-day hurt the chances the Crooner. Mr. Boardman designed eared to do everything possible to hurt the olf and allow the Crooner to win. Board-ian designed six of the new sonder class chts this year and not one has been se-sted. The Wolf was designed by W. tarling Burgess, the Joyette by Charles D. lower and the Ellen was designed by dman three years ago.

Wolf had been selected as the third last American trio of the sonder boats se against the Germans the committee not compete in the international series number accordingly. This was deupon because it is rather uncertain yet whether or not Capt. Protzein of the favella will be able to sail her in the inter-

Two out of the nineteen boats that took these trials were owned by New orkers, and these two got into the last x, and the Joyette was finally selected as of the trio. The Joyette has sailed in light weather and is improving all the time. The race she ran to-day was a good one in light weather and it showed that she is a safe boat to select to race against the Germans and that she will de well in any weather.

The Ellen is good in light weather and the did well too when it blew hard:
The Wolf can sail fast in strong winds and she can reach fast in any weather to that the three selected should be well the to represent this country no matter what weather prevails during the week of the international races.
The German boats have been cleaned and painted and are ready to go in the water, they will be measured first and then tuned up for the races.

y. Sometimes she has shown well winds and sometimes in light airs en again she has falled, and it is by many that her successes have been through the cleverness of Charles. Adams 2d, who sails her, rather any special ability in the boat, if has done well in strong and fresh out failed in light airs and she seems one weather boat. The Manchester done only fairly well under all con-

m the middle of the line. She gathered dway quickly and was over first. The ette was to windward of her and Manter to leeward, and the Wolf was wo ward of all. They were on the starboard to Croener was sailed with a good full at once began to pull ahead, although did not point as high as the others, she footed faster. The Mancheste: II'de first to tack allo she passed agtern first to tack and she passed astern byette, and then went back to the d tack. The Crooner some minutes earboard tack. The Crooner some minutes later took the port tack and she crossed the bow of the Joyette and was the leading boat in the fleet.

In the meantime the wind had shown signs of backing and was coming south-southwest, so that it was poor judgment to stand far on the port tack. The Crooner held on this tack for some minutes and footed outfast. The Joyette was some distance on her weather quarter, and next was Manchester and then Wolf. Then the wind went south the Crooner lost all she had gained and the yachts that had not gone so far to the westward were herefited. By the time the weather mark was reached the wind was south by east.

The Joyette sailed well and was well handled and she turned the mark first, pinohing in ahead of the Manchetser by four seconds, and the Wolf was three seconds as seconds further astern. The spinnaker was set to starboard on the Joyette and gnyed well forward, being used almost as a balloon jib, and she at once drew away from the Manchester and sailed wonderfully fast for the conditions. The Wolf pulled by the Manchester and showed up well, but the Crooner cell steadily behind. The Joyette finished first, a winner by i minute 17 seconds; the Wolf was second, 12 seconds ahead of the Manchester III., and that yacht was 1 minute 15 seconds ahead of the Manchester III. and that yacht was 1 minute 15 seconds ahead of the Crooner. The committee discussed the race, for a short time and were of the opinion that as the yachts were so close together when the wind began to shift one yacht did not benefit much more than another. They signalled to the Joyette to come alongside the tugboat. The signal had hardly been hoisted when the Joyette bore off and stood back. Mr. Howard said: "Joyette, we have selected you as one of the three to represent this country and you're excused from further racing."

"Thank you very much," repied Mr. Mower, and then the three on the New York boat, C. D. Mower, W. W. Swann and Butler Whiting, hugged each other and cheered. As they sailed through the fleet of small craft they were heartly congratulated.

There was a short wait for luncheon and then a triangular course with the first leg to windward was signalled. The wind was from sout, southeast. The start was made to 1:50 o'clock. The Crooner as usual was in the line, Wolf was to windward of her and Manchester to windward of the Wolf."

"Crooner was the first to take the port tack, and she croosed Wolf and Manchester had be used to the wolf and tack and manchester made a short hifth to get away from the Wolf. Crooner drew ahead. The Crooner won the race by 1 minute 43 seconds and Man-chester beat the Wolf forty-five seconds. SECOND RACE-TRIANGULAR COURSE-6 MILES

The elapsed times over each leg of the 1st Leg. 2d Leg. 3d Leg. Another race was ordered to windward and return and the course was south by west. They were sent away at 3:30 o'clock. The Wolf was first, with Manchester to windward and Crooner in between the two, and the Crooner at once took the port tack, and when clear of the others took the starboard tack again.

A squall had been making up to the northwest, and the wind suddenly swept over the water, and the wind suddenly swept over the water, and the Crooner being the stern boat first got the benefit of the change and eased off her sheet, reaching toward the mark. The two others got italmost as soon, but the Crooner reached by them and seemed to almost fly toward the mark. The squail was a sharp one and the Wolf showed her ability to sail in a brisk wind, passing the Manchester and soon cutting down the lead the Crooner had taken. They gybed around the mark, Crooner at 3.54.57, Wolf at 8.54.23 and Manchester III. at 3.54.51. Then the committee called "race off, as it would have been a reach home.

The starting mark was shifted and again the yachts were sent off to sail a windward and leeward course. They were started at 4.25 o'clock, and Manchester III. had the weather position, with Wolf next and Crooner to leeward. All were on the starboard tack. The Crooner tried to romp away from the others, but this time they stuck to her and she tacked and was held astern of the other two. The wind had fallen very light and Manchester seemed to be doing the best work. The Wolf left her and went after the Crooner, and what the three came together again Wolf was the last boat and Crooner was a little to leeward of the Manchester.

In this way they made a long starboard tack, and the Crooner almost pulled through of the Manchester.

In this way they made a long starboard tack and the Croc.er almost pulled through the Manchester's lee when both took the port tack. They held this tack until they could fetch the mark and then Crooner pulled by and took the lead. The times at this mark were: Crooner, 5:22:40; Manchester III., 5:22:52; Wolf, 5:28:08. The committee called the race then and all returned to the harbor.

Rest in Fly and Bait Casting at Van Cortlandt Park

Two Chicagoans and one New Yorker were first prize winners on the three events decided in the championship fly and bait casting yesterday at Van Cortlandt Park. It is the annual tournament of the National Association of Scientific Angling Clubs and is held this time under the auspices of the Anglers Club of New York. The competitions were between showers, for when only after records and not fish the angiers flee to shelter when it rains.

In the dry fly casting for accuracy the trials were at the floating target placed in turn at 20, 30, 40, 30 and 80 feet from the platform. No cast was counted perfect unless the fly dropped on the target, each foot short of the mark being one demerit. This is the Earl of the mark being one demerit. De Garmo's winning cast fast time was 69 9-15 points. Dr. R. J. Held of the Angler's Club won the one-half ounce bait casting and made the world's record of 193 2-5 feet for the best average of five casts. He had made the previous record of 161 feet at Harlem Mere and also holds the world's record for a single cast under these conditions of 215 feet, made at the Newark Fly and Bait Club in July. This Dr. Held did not equal by three feet, for his single casts were of 189, 174, 204, 212 and 188 feet. His 212 yard cast was the best individual one and gained for Dr. Held a special prize.

New Yorks Make Poor Showing on Their Return From Trip-Lose Ground Too Both the Pittsburgs and Chicagos Winning-Brooklyns Beaten in Eleventh.

The Western teams of the National League resterday inaugurated their third and last visit to the East by cleaning up all along the line. The Giants fell before the Cincinnatis, and it was an expensive defeat, since the Pittsburgs won in Philadelphia and the Cubs in Boston. The Giaute were suffering from an off day and were not anywhere near up to form. The Brooklyns gave way to the attack of the St. Louis Cardinala The results:

The homecoming of the Giants yesterday was an afternoon of vicissitudes weather and the Cincinnati Reds harried them to such an extent that they were badly beaten. The intermittent rain and sunshine, clearing and cloudy with chang-ing lights, harried the Reds as much as the Giants, but the Giants did not hold out as long as their rivals in the more important influence of making trouble for the other

The further the Reds went the harder they banged the ball. It didn't matter much to them if they did make fielding slips so long as they could poke out a hit at will and swell their tally booty. Yorks found Fromme a perplexing problem but were in the game a while on account of errors in Fromme's support. The Giants gave a pretty poor exhibition on the whole, their play being without the fire and or

The Brooklyns and Cardinals engaged in a redhot battle at Washington Park yesterday, one which was interesting all the time when not halted by the rain. The battle extended to extra innings and was won by the Cardinals with a cluster of safeties in the eleventh. The Brooklyns were out for business in their half of the eleventh, too, but just when they were about to even up but just when they were about to even up the tally a double play cut them down. A second game was started, but was stopped by rain after two innings of zeros.

the controversy over the services of Pitcher James Vaughn yesterday which would seem to indicate that the National Baseball Commission may be forced to look into the formal charge made by the New York American League club that Clark Griffith, manager of the Cincinnati club, has been tampering with the player, also that Garry Herrmann, owner of the Cincinnati club has no right as a member of the National verdict involving Vaughn. There is a sudden uncertainty about Ketchel's proposed ten roung bout with Langford that is worrying the officials of the Fairmont A. C. not a little. Ketchel is still on the Coast, and Britt, his erratic manager, says the middleweight champion is not in a hurry to leave the mountains. But Britt insists that Ketchel will come East in time to box Langford on September 10 or a little later. As Ketchel is sewed up for a fight with Jack Johnson at Colma on October 12 it was reported vesterday that Promoter Coffroth has been trying to make him back out of the Langford affair, at the same time advising him to take on as much weight as possible within the next four weeks, so that he will be in formidable condition to meet the big negro. Coffroth, it is said, does not want to have Ketchelrun the risk of a defeat at the hands of Langford, because such an incident would practically kill the interest in the Ketchel-Johnson affair.

The Fairmont Club officials, on the other hand, say they have letters and telegrams from Britt that are equivalent to signed articles of agreement and that they intend to go ahead with arrangements for the Langford mill. It is the general belief, however, that if Ketchel comes East he will insist upon meeting Langford at catch weights rather than be compelled to reduce to 158 pounds a month before he hooks up with Johnson. Langford has trained hard to make 158 and may refuse to box under any other weight conditions. Ketchel has lost many friends by his erratic behavior since knocking Jack O'Brien out in Philadelphia, and if he runs out of the battle with Langford it is safe to say that he will be roundly scored. He is a great fighter, but he seems to be the victim of poor judgment on the part of his manager.

Willie Lewis may be compelled to wait some time before securing a match with Papke, as the latter is considering a liberal offer from a Frisco club to box twenty rounds with Frank Mantell on September 6.

It will probably be a case of even money and take your pick when Sandy Ferguson and Joe Jeannette meet in a ten round argument at the Fairmont Club next Friday night. These heavyweights are at swords points and are anxious to settle their differences decisively. Ferguson is preparing for the mill near Boston and Jeannette is training over in Hoboken. The former will scale at about 205 while the latter will tip the beam at 190.

There will be continuous racing at Sheepshead Bay during the fall meeting of the Coney Island Jockey Club which opens a week from Monday, with the Futurity as the attraction. This is taken to mean that the other metropolitan track will race without open dates until the local season closes on November 15.

Brighton Beach is sure to ask the Jockey Club for dates next year. It is figured out that a meeting of fifteen days at Seratoga will be enough to satisfy the demand for racing up the State in view of the fact that it has already been shown that the sport cannot be run without loss except within the confines of the metropolitar district. Horsemen who are idle this month, with horses eating their heads off at the Long Island tracks, say that the session at Saratoga is too long, and that they would welcome some sort of a meeting here next August. It is well understood that the Brighton Beach Racing Association will meet all its obligations to horsemen before next spring, and will apply for dates to cover the usual summer meeting.

R. T. Wilson, Jr., who races in the name of the Montrelier Stable, will have one of the biggest thoroughbred strings in training next year. Mr. Wilson recently purchased all of John E! Madden's vearlings for $30,000, and practically all of them will race in this country. Mr. Wilson, however, has made a few entries in the 1911 English Derby.

PELL PLAYS GOOD TENNIS. New York Man Defeats Niles in Stirring Match at Newport.

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 20.-Theodore Roose velt Pell and Charles M. Bull, Jr., two of the New York ternis experts, worked their way to the fifth round of the all-comers national championship tournament this afternoon. Both the national indoor champion and the title holder of the Crescent Athletic Club pulled through gruelling competitions that went the limit of five sets. Pell splendidly in control of his drives, backhand and passing shots, defeated Harvara's famous intercollegiate champion Nathaniel W. Niles, 3-6, 6-4, 3-6, 6-4, 8-6. Bull came through against Yale's old pitcher, Alfred Stillman, Jr., 8-10, 5-7, 6-0, 6-1, 6-4. What had been featured as the main com petition turned out a fizzle, for Edward P. Larned, younger brother of the national champion, smothered Wylie C. Grant, 6-2, 6-0 and 6-4. This was the poorest exhibition of tennis that the championship stretch of turf has held in many a day. Grant seemed chained. He would not exert

HAR HARBOR HORSE SHOW. Mrs. Paul Deckia Mills Scores Heavily-A Driver Ruled Off. BAR HARBOR, Me., Aug. 20.—The third day of the Bar Harbor Horse Show is always the big day. Some of the finest women riders and reinswomen competed and the work of Mrs. Paul Deckla Mills of Philariders and reinswomen competed and the work of Mrs. Paul Deckla Mills of Philadelphia, who took four ribbons and showed the championship pair besides, was worthy of special commendation. In the ladies' obstacle class she was opposed by some of he best women drivers in the country.

The championship of the show in the pair classes was won by Paul Deckla Mills's Sultan and Sultana, Mrs. Mills driving, with Miss Anne Thompson's Lord Stanton and Toto taking the reserve ribbon. The championship in singles went to Charles K. Bispham's Leader of Fashion, with George A. McClellan's Sir Charles taking the reserve ribbon. The saddle horse championship went to Miss Anne Thompson's La Reine.

The pony class in the morning was marked by several incidents not on the programme. Fergus Reid's Merrylegs took the blue, Morehead Patterson's Carolina the red and Gilbert Keech's Mistletoe the yellow. Louis J. Pooler's entry failed to place and the driver, a groom in his employ, was ruled off the track for insolence to the judges. Another pony, a New York entry, was removed on account of having been doped and becoming unmanageable.
